HEARTS OF

EMPOWERMENT

We believe that every community is important and deserves the right to fight for positive change. We provide resources and tools to various at-risk communities across the DC Metropolitan Area.

ENRICHMENT PROGRAM

We are excited to announce our newest project, the Academic Enrichment Program, a dynamic endeavor dedicated to empowering youth across the DC Metropolitan area. Our initiative tackles the barriers hindering marginalized communities. Rooted in four foundational pillars: college readiness, mentorship, wellness, and standardized testing – our program offers a comprehensive approach to holistic development.

As our students are getting prepared for college, we are currently offering SAT prep courses! Our incredibly talented tutors and organizers began their 9-week long work with two D.C. Public High Schools, Dunbar High School and Cardozo Education Campus.

One of our tutors, Josephine Wu (pictured on the right) is an accomplished senior at Georgetown University. She leads the classrooms in an engaging way to prepare everyone in attendance.

Josephine's Favorite Parts!

- Getting to know the students
- Hearing students' future plans
- Working so closely with a non-profit
- Students' desire to work hard and improve

Josephine also shared why others should apply to be a tutor for this program:

"I got to work really closely with the leadership team." she said, "It made me really resolved about disparities in our education systems."

INTERESTED IN TUTORING?

Incredible work is allowed to happen in these schools because of great tutors like Josephine. As we plan to expand our program, we could use even more passionate people to lead these courses!

Our application is now open on the Hearts of Empowerment website. Underneath the “Our Program” banner you will find the SAT prep section as well as the application to become a tutor.
